Hi Folks,

Last week the server that we hosted the Kirkcaldy Book on had an extreme hardware failure and we had to move it onto a brand new, all singing, all dancing web server.

When we did this there were a couple of problems regarding authentication for users logging in, however these have been fixed and now we can get back to updating the content once again.

If anyone has any trouble logging in due to the new IP address of the web site, just set your local firewall so that kirkcaldybook.com is in the 'trusted zone', then clear out your browser cache and reboot and you should be back in like Flynn, as they say.

Adios.
