Hi Keith thank you for those nice photos, what are pillars suppose to be, it looks rather odd to just put them up for no reason, maybe time will tell. It seems there are thugs everywhere, just the other week someone set fire to a new play park for the kids, who were really enjoying playing on all the new geer, but thanks to some louts they no longer can do that, as far as I know no one has yet be caught for doing this. I wonder what is in their heads, what pleasure they get from destroying those sorts of things. I guess it will soon be time for the decorations to go up in the town, I hope they really go to town this year and put up lots and Christmas trees.
